Opening Day at the Illinois State Fair

CAMPUS VIEWS

The first Illinois State Fair was held in 1853 under the auspices of the State Board Agricultural Association for the purpose of advancing the science of agriculture. From 1853 to 1894 the Fair was held at various cities throughout the state, but in 1895 Springfield became its permanent home.

ADMINISTRATION

The Illinois State Fair for 19 years was under the administration of the State Board Agricultural Association. In 1872 it was taken over by the State Board of Agriculture, under whose supervision it remained until 1919 when it was made a division of the Department of Agriculture.

PRINCIPAL D. W. MCCOY

Perhaps the best known man in the City of Springfield, and the country surrounding it, is D. W. McCoy, Principal of Springfield High School. For seven years Mr. McCoy has been the chief executive of Springfield High. Upon his shoulders has rested the burden of administering to the needs of the students of this school. He has been the friend and advisor of fourteen graduating classes, as well as the trusted representative of their parents. Consequently, his friends are numerous among young and old alike.

Mr. McCoy is a graduate of the Universities of Illinois and Columbia and is the recipient of A.B. and A.M. degrees. He has also attended the University of Colorado and the University of Chicago. This educational training has made him a fit man for this difficult position. His appreciation of the fine arts is evident in the development of the school along these lines under his guiding hand.

Aside from excelling in the direction of educational affairs, Mr. McCoy has proved adept in dealing with students as well as adults. His diplomacy in handling difficult situations is known and appreciated by everyone. The reputation of the school for courtesy and honor is due in no small part to his encouragement of these qualities. His agreeable cooperation with the activities of all the organizations, and his fairness in all his dealings with the students have made him much appreciated and admired by them.

University of Illinois, M.A.

Administrative Assistants

The principal is ably assisted in his administration work by a group of three assistants: Mr. L. K. Davis, assistant principal, and the Deans, Miss F. Whip and Mr. R. Wentz. Mr. Davis has fulfilled the difficult duties of the assistant principal in a very efficient manner and deserves a great deal of the credit for the smoothness with which the school program has run off in the past year. Miss Whip, who has taken the place of Miss G. Nix, as Dean of Girls, has succeeded very well in this position and is well liked by all the girls. Again this year Mr. Wentz has occupied the position of Dean of Boys in a very commendable manner. His dealings with the students have always taken place with a feeling of mutual friendliness and honor.

General Offices

The renowned efficiency of the high school office is due to four intelligent, likeable young ladies, Miss Aurelius, Miss Atkins, Miss Taylor and Miss Davis. These ladies all graduated from Springfield High School in recent years and at present are very important cogs in the office machinery.

The affairs of the "Cooties" are in charge of Miss Aurelius. Their absences, cuts, credits, and some of their misbehaviors are all under her supervision. Her friendliness goes a long way towards making the timid freshmen feel at home in Central High.

The affairs at Senior High are in the charge of three persons. Miss Atkins has charge of the credits, Miss Taylor the attendance, and Miss Davis the correspondence. The clammy fear which settles on a person as he answers an office call of Mr. Davis is somewhat offset by the pleasant attitude of this office force.

Art

The Art Department of the Springfield High School offers a most interesting and helpful course not only to those who intend to carry on more extensive work in this field but to those who are delighted in acquiring a more thorough knowledge of art in its better forms. Two courses are offered to the students: the regular art course, and an art appreciation course. In the regular art course the first year students are given fundamental work, which includes pencil and color design work. Later they are instructed in painting flowers, figures, posters; in advanced charcoal and pencil design work, and in wood blocks, water colors, and in drawings. The art appreciation course teaches the fundamentals of architecture, house furnishings, color harmony, and master paintings.

Modern Language

Aver tuve el libro.
Hier j'ai pris le livre.
Gestern Habe ich das Buch genommin.

To the student who has studied no modern language the above three sentences seem Greek. They are really not Greek but are Spanish, French, and German sentences. The Modern Language Department offers three languages that will ultimately help the student in social activities and business aggressiveness. Three years of French and Spanish are offered with various courses of study in grammar, pronunciation, literature, composition, and conversation. Stories are read which tell of the life, customs, and ideals of the people. After the first year the conversation in class is held in the language being studied. In German the first year is devoted to grammar, poems, and story telling. The second year is devoted mostly to translation.

Manual Arts

The Manual Arts Department offers to the high school boy an opportunity to fit himself for some vocation in the industrial field. The auto mechanics course presents a practical and theoretical understanding of the workings of automobiles. The machine shop course gives the student a practical understanding of the various machines and lathes, and also correct shop methods of production. The electrical section presents to the pupil a complete knowledge of the power, activity, and fundamentals of electricity. The mechanical drawing section is instructed in machine, architectural, engineering, and sheet metal drawings. The printing classes are responsible for the printing of detention slips, deficiency slips, other office forms, and the "High School Bulletin." Woodworking instructs the student in the correct use of woodworking tools and in the construction of useful material objects from wood.

English

The English Department offers a fine variety of courses to the students of the Springfield High School. All students must take three years of English before a diploma will be granted. Fourth year English offers some very unique courses to the student. The required course is divided into two distinct phases; composition and literature. The composition course, which trains one in the fundamentals of our language, is given to all the 9^1, 10^1 and 11^1 classes. However, they may choose between a one semester course which deals in the types of literature and a two semester course which covers English literature from Beowulf to Galsworthy. In their Junior year students may choose for their composition course either debate, journalism, which gives practical work in the editing of the High School weekly, or an Experiments in Writing course. To the student who desires a fourth year of English, a most select field of electives remains. One of the popular electives is Scribblers, a class of advanced composition. This class forms the editorial staff of the Venture, the yearly school magazine. This magazine is composed of original poetry, drama, and short story written by the pupils of the school. Some very talented and promising writers have been brought forth by this magazine. The drama course offered is one of the finest in the country. Other popular electives are the American Literature course, the American and British Contemporary course in Literature, and Public Speaking.

Science

"Have you read Sir James Jean's, 'The Mysterious Universe?' " "No, but I intend to."

From the above conversation one can easily tell that the students of Springfield High School are interested in science. This is only natural because science is so well represented in the curricula of Springfield High School. Every student must take a year of science before graduating. The courses offered are General Science, Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Biology, Zoology, and Agriculture. Time is divided between the classroom and laboratory, where the principles taught are practiced. During the past year the Science Department has received a large amount of new apparatus. The courses are proving popular with the student body as evidenced in the increased enrollment in the different science courses.

Physical Education

What is more beneficial to a student than a good healthy body? Absolutely nothing. It is the purpose of the Physical Education Department to teach cleanliness of mind as well as of body. Each student must take two years of physical education. Classes are held in the four gymnasiums, and when the weather permits the gymsters are taken out of doors. The girls classes indulge in volleyball, cornerball, basketball, indoor baseball, dancing, rhythm, and various gymnastic stunts. The boys are instructed in the major sports and also in boxing, calisthenics, and various indoor games. Intramural basketball was again inaugurated during the past year. All of these sports help to build material for varsity teams.

Social Science

In this age of worldly problems between nations that are seemingly far from each other and yet so near, Social Science plays an important part. This department teaches the students to be useful members of society, and to strengthen the memory and the ability to organize. The department also teaches the student to become a useful citizen not only of his city, state, or nation, but of the world, and as a useful citizen he must profit by the mistakes of those who have acted before him. All college preparatory students are urged to begin their studies in this department with a study of Ancient and Medieval History at the beginning of the second year. This course requires but one semester. The second semester is devoted to a study of the history of Europe and America in the seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries. The next course requires a year. This is a course in Modern European History. All Seniors are required to take United States History and Civics. The purpose of the Civics course is to teach the student the fundamental machinery by which our government operates, and to train pupils to think clearly upon civic problems. Each college preparatory student is required to write a civics theme upon some phase or problem of our government. All other pupils in other courses are required to study community civics when Freshmen, and also World History when Sophomores.

Latin

"Labor ommia vincit."
"Ars coronat Laborem."

These are the mottoes of the Latin Department, and noble mottoes they are. The Latin Department presents one of the hardest courses in the high school and yet one of great importance. The Freshmen and Sophomores begin by reading simple Latin stories that tell of Roman life in all its phases, Roman mythology, and history. Of course foundations for these readings must be laid first. Caesar's Commentaries are read in the fourth and part of the fifth semesters. Next Cicero's orations are delved into. The fourth year symbolizes triumph to the Latin student, for at last that remarkable piece of work, Virgil's Aeneid, is attacked and conquered. These crowning works add a great deal of interest to this ancient course.

Mathematics

Mathematics is a study that is ever increasing in popularity in the high school. The Freshman is instructed in Algebra and when this course is finished he realizes that x is placed in other places than at the end of letters. This course includes fundamentals and simple practice. Plain geometry is the next course offered. The geometry text is supplemented with a special theorem booklet prepared by Mr. Barnes. In the Junior and Senior years, advanced Algebra, Solid Geometry, College Algebra, Trigonometry, and Arithmetic are offered. The College Algebra and Trigonometry classes are instructed in the various complex mathematical formulae and systems, while the Advanced Arithmetic classes aim for accuracy and speed in calculations.

Commercial

In this age of business, the Commercial Department offers a valuable training to any student intending to enter the business field. In bookkeeping a course is offered in the organization and administration of business. Before this course is completed, the student must be able to keep a set of Partnership and Corporation books and to make fiscal financial statements, which are an important factor in business transactions. Courses in stenography and typing are offered to those students who have advanced in this department. To this course also belongs a class in office practice and procedure, which enables the student to make an application of the principles taught. Many graduates of this course are finding positions in business concerns throughout the country. The Capitoline Staff is greatly indebted to the Commercial Department for their willing assistance in the production of this book.

Music

If you have ever passed by the Springfield High School, you have undoubtedly heard volumes of melody floating out over the campus. The source from whence these melodies flow is the various high school musical organizations. All Freshmen and Sophomores are required to take chorus, except those who desire to join the band or orchestra. If the student in chorus shows exceptional ability he is placed in the Junior or Senior Choir. These organizations are also open to talented Juniors and Seniors. Harmony is another course that is open to the more advanced pupils. The high school band and orchestra is composed of some very talented young musicians. These two organizations give annual concerts and also play for various occasions. The Freshmen and Sophomores present yearly cantatas. An operetta, "Sonia," was given during the past year by the Junior and Senior Choirs.

Household Arts

The Home Economics course presents a most interesting and varied field to the high school girl. The Freshman student is given a course which includes many interesting units such as Food Preparation, Dietetics, Clothing Construction, Costume Design, Child Care, Home Nursing, Household Furnishings, and Care of the Home. More detailed and specialized courses are offered in Clothing, Foods, and Household Management to the girl who desires more efficiency and proficiency in Home Economics. Some very excellent forms of lady's clothing are presented to the student body in a style assembly which is held during the latter part of the school year. Anyone who doubts that these girls can cook needs only to pass through the lower halls and inhale some of the delicious odors escaping from the cooking room.

Student Service

Due to the size of our school, it is necessary to have three very important departments to render service to the students, the cafeteria, the library, and the high school nurse's office.

The cafeteria is a part of our school of which we are all proud. Here nearly 1800 students are served daily with delicious and nourishing lunches, which are prepared and served by 22 paid employees and 66 student helpers. The aims of the cafeteria are efficiency and quality, and they are fulfilled at all times so well that the good name of our cafeteria has spread far and wide. A pleasant atmosphere and reasonable prices for tasty dishes draw a big per cent of the student body to the cafeteria for their noon meal. By means of the Cafeteria Council the boys who help to serve the crowds daily are brought together for greater cooperation and a true feeling of service.

The library renders an invaluable service to the student body, who here have the use of over 12,000 volumes and an extensive file of clippings on current subjects. The library is organized so that books of every variety of information are available to the students. It is prepared to serve every department of the school and has come to be such a feature of high school education that it is impossible to think of the effective functioning of the curriculum without its facilities.

No position in the school is more important than that of the high school nurse. Students who are in poor health cannot gain much from their studies, nor is it safe for them to risk spreading contagion to others. The duty of the school nurse is to examine all those returning to school following illness and determine whether or not they are ready to resume their work.

To some people, the word Seniors signifies just another group of young men and women passing into the world of business and affairs in general. To a Senior, that word means the ending of four happy years of school, and it also means that some of the things taught in school must be put to use.

The Senior class of 1931 has in no way been an outstanding class but it has been representative. It has contributed a great deal to the school in general—athletes, speakers, scholars, actors, writers, musicians, and representative students. The class, because of its representativeness, has ranked high in class spirit.

This class sends into the world students who have signified their intentions of becoming engineers, doctors, lawyers, teachers, clergymen, scientists, and laborers. Of course there are those who will enter other fields.

We bid them all farewell and hope that the spirit and knowledge they obtained in S. H. S. will ever remain with them.

SPRINGFIELD SCHOLARSHIP SOCIETY

To encourage the maintenance of a high standard of scholarship in high school, an honorary scholarship society has been formed, membership in which is open to every senior who meets the scholastic requirements. These requirements call for an average of 85 during the entire school course, a grade of 90 in one major, and participation in some high school activity outside the regular class room work.

In the present Senior Class, membership has been extended to the following:

Springfield High School Scholarship Society

Heretofore a list of the members of the Springfield High School Scholarship Society from the June Senior Class has been published in the Capitoline. This list, because it was made out so far before the close of school, has always contained many errors and has aroused a great deal of hard feeling. Because of this fact we shall not publish a list this year, but we do wish to extend our congratulations to those students who do succeed in fulfilling the requirements.

Juniors

To the Junior, life seems to be full of nothing but good times. Everyone envies a Junior because of this very thing. But the Junior class has proven that, although they are out for a good time, they are also ready to contribute their share to the high school in general. Of course the most important event on the Junior calendar is the prom. This social highlight is still in the offing, but we are informed that it will be the biggest and best ever. If this is true, the class must have spirit. We believe it has, as evidenced by their hearty cooperation in all events. In this class there may be found some of the school's outstanding pupils in all-around activities. Members of the class have demonstrated their ability in music, forensics, athletics, and scholarship.

A good deal of the class' success is due to the able assistance of Mr. Simpson, the advisor.

Sophomores

One usually doesn't hear much about the Sophomore class, but this year it has been different. Not because the Sophomores have tooted their own horn, but because actions speak louder than words. They have really been quite active in the life of the high school. Of course, there has been very little class activities as a whole. However, various members of the class have shone in scholarship, many of them ranking among the school's highest. Others have distinguished themselves in athletics, several of them being on varsity teams, in debates, and in music. To be frank, we sincerely believe that members of this year's class will go forward the next two years of their high school career and bring more honor and glory to dear old S. H. S. We charge them with that duty, and we believe it will be fulfilled.

Freshmen

What are Freshmen for? If this question were asked to some of the less dignified and conceited upper classmen, a very desirable answer might be obtained. The Freshman boy or girl serves more than one purpose, whether he thinks so or not. What would life be without a dozen or so green Freshmen frisking and gamboling on the green? It would be pretty dull. One really enjoys seeing these youngsters go through antics, hunting for elevators and swimming pools. But seriously speaking, the Freshman class promises great things in the next three years. Although the Freshman course is not difficult, it is different and provides many trying hours for those who wish to excell. Many members of this class have attained a high scholastic standing which is a credit to themselves and to their class. The Freshmen get their first taste of student government, a small taste, but nevertheless a taste. They have had various problems to meet, and this year's class has met them with a fair amount of success. In athletics the class has more than met their quota. Besides having a Freshman football and basketball team of their own which competed with the other Junior Highs of the city and with outside schools, they have placed men on the varsity teams. In banking the class leads the school. They have also taken part in many of the social activities. In their annual cantata the class made a most creditable showing. A freshman Boys' Glee Club under the guidance of Mr. Benedict has added to the musical attainments of the class.

The fine showing of the class is largely due to the untiring efforts of the advisors, Mrs. Rien and Mr. Cavitt.

The boys of Springfield High School are very fortunate because of the opportunities they have for developing themselves along athletic lines. The splendid work done by the coaches, managers, and all others connected with this department should be commended because of the results they have achieved.

The group pictured below is a new one in connection with the Athletic Department. It is the Pep Squad. Although the membership was small, it was very active in supporting the teams throughout the football and basketball seasons.

Football Season

The football season of 1930 was the most successful one experienced by the high school in years. Mr. Roellig, the coach, was ably assisted by Mr. Teuscher in turning out a well balanced team. This team maintained a splendid record. It played nine games and remained undefeated, and it won the championship of the Big Twelve Conference. Mr. J. L. Sanders, the business manager this year, was very successful in financing the team. He made it possible for the team to play several night games under huge flood lights on the high school field. He also furnished the team with new equipment, which made it look as good as it really was.

The coaches had plenty of material this year. Over one hundred boys turned out for practice the first day, some of whom were members of the team last year. This group went through quite a strenuous training. Mr. Roellig drilled it for many weeks on the fundamentals of football. He then developed a series of plays which were so well worked out that our opponents were continually baffled. Players who showed any talent were developed carefully. The result was a team with an excellent line and a fast, accurate backfield.

The first game of the season was a night game on September 26 with Clinton on Springfield's gridiron. Springfield started off the season in top form by defeating them 25 to 6. Weed contributed two touchdowns to the score while Woods and Yanorofski each added one. Even at this early stage in the season the team showed its possibilities as a championship team.

The Senn High Team of Chicago was probably the strongest team we met during the whole season. The fact that they were considered the strongest team in the northern part of the State did not keep Springfield from holding them to a scoreless tie. Both teams seemed equally strong. The result was the ball seldom got past the 30-yard line towards either goal. We were satisfied with this score at the time, but we felt that if we had played them later in the season there would have been a different story.

On October 11 the Red and Black players journeyed to Carlinville for the third game of the season. Here they annexed their second victory. The splendid offensive and defensive work of Springfield's line was the outstanding feature of the game. Although no score was made until about the last half of the second quarter, Springfield finally came through the last quarter with the score 19 to 0 in their favor. Springfield rooters were very much pleased by the new plays which the team worked to their advantage.

The last night game of the season was a home game played on October 17 with Jacksonville. Jacksonville's team seemed unusually weak this year and, as a result, the game turned out to be a track meet for Springfield's team. By the time the gun sounded for the end of the game nearly every one of the S. H. S. substitutes had had a chance to play. The final score was 97 to 0, Springfield's favor.

Springfield's "Track Meet" with Jacksonville

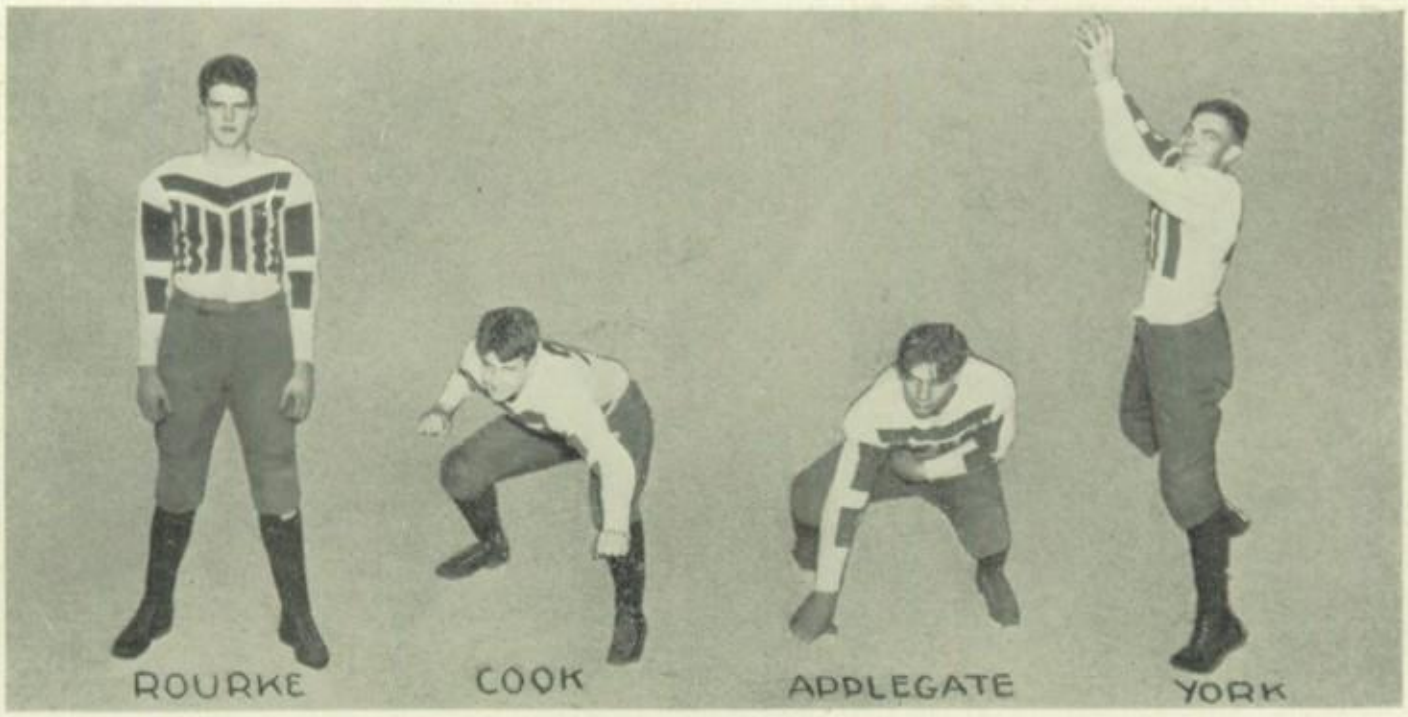
At Peoria, on October 25, Springfield again showed her superiority by defeating Peoria Central, 18 to 6. Peoria had much the same type team we had, but their plays did not work as smoothly, nor were they as deceptive. S. H. S., led by Captain DiCenso, played a hard game and was strongly supported by a large group of Springfield rooters who journeyed to Peoria for that purpose.

Springfield kept up her good record by beating Danville 53 to 7 on October 31 at Springfield. Duey was the high-light in this game. He made several brilliant runs, one of which was a fifty-yard dash for a touchdown. He was assisted in his scoring by Hoffman, DiCenso and Woods. In this victory Springfield avenged itself for the defeats it received at the hands of Danville in previous years.

"Dido" Gets the Ball Again



The most exciting game of the year was played with Lincoln November 8, on their field. The Lincoln team, led by their giant fullback, Froschauer, fought like fiends and finally succeeded, by the end of the third quarter, in scoring seven points and holding Springfield scoreless. As the last quarter started, Springfield uncorked an aerial attack that swept Lincoln off its feet. Within a few minutes after the kick-off the ball was across Lincoln's goal. Springfield missed the try for the extra point, and her backers were broken-hearted. This was uncalled for, however, because in the last few minutes of play the Red and Black fighters scored again by the same type of attack. After kicking the goal they carried home their fourth conference victory won by a score of 13 to 7.

Keeping up their same pace, Springfield journed to Peoria and took Peoria Manual into camp to the tune of 14 to 0. With this victory Springfield forged ahead to first place in the Big Twelve Conference. The stonewall line of Springfield showed its ability again in this game by smothering most of Manual's attacks before they got past the line of scrimmage.

The last game of the season was our annual Turkey Day game with Decatur at Springfield. The weather was cold and snowy but both teams played well. Springfield succeeded in holding Ray Rex, Decatur's scoring threat, scoreless and piling up three touchdowns herself. The Red and Black champions finished up the season in fine style by winning 21 to 0.

This Championship Team did a great deal towards arousing the latent school spirit of Springfield High School. Every game, whether at home or away from home, was attended by a large number of loyal supporters. The success of this team was, without a doubt, due to three things, the loyal support of the student body, the efforts of the coaches, and the fighting spirit, and sportsman-like conduct of the players. The people who have made this team possible deserve the appreciation and commendation of the student body because of its success.

Basketball Season

The basketball season of Springfield High School was fully as successful as the football. Thanks to Coach Mark Peterman, Springfield turned out a team which ranked among the best in the State. This was Mr. Peterman's second year at Springfield, and this team was even more successful than the first one. Again this year he used the slow breaking offensive game which proved very efficient. The players were all well trained in handling the ball and in shooting. These factors, together with some excellent plays, made it a very hard team to beat. The most outstanding feature of this team was its ability to stage a last minute rally. So many times did Springfield overcome a four, six, or eight point lead to win a game in the last few minutes of play, that many people called it a last quarter team. The players seemed to be inspired with a certain spirit that would not recognize defeat. They would start the game playing good basketball but would end it by playing an outstanding brand of game. This fact made the team very popular with the whole city, and as a result, a great many of the citizens attended the games as faithfully as the high school rooters. This spirit, as well as all the other abilities of the team, may be accredited to the faithful work of the coach.

Quite a few students turned out for practice this season. With the exception of two players, none of the boys had been on the squad the last year. One of these last year varsity men graduated in February, thus leaving just one experienced player on the team. This fact caused a serious barrier to Mr. Peterman. To make an outstanding team out of green material is a job which takes a great deal of coaching talent. These players were trained carefully. Nearly every afternoon after school and many evenings for months these boys practiced. The team which resulted from this thought and labor was a good one. It consisted of the following players: Fitzgerald, center; Hoffman, Vasey, Cochran, Frazee, Myers, Duey, Albright, forwards; Luparell, Hershfield, Cook, Mester, guards. The record of this team, in tying Peoria Manuel for the championship of the Big Twelve, going to the finals of the sectional tournament, and beating twice the team which won the state championship, is one to be remembered with pride. Over half of the home games were played in the State Arsenal in order to hold the large crowds that attended them. The success of this arrangement is due to Mr. Sanders, who managed this season as successfully as he did the football. Since a summary of each game would be too lengthy for this discussion, it will suffice to list the games played by the S.H.S. five and their scores. They are as follows:

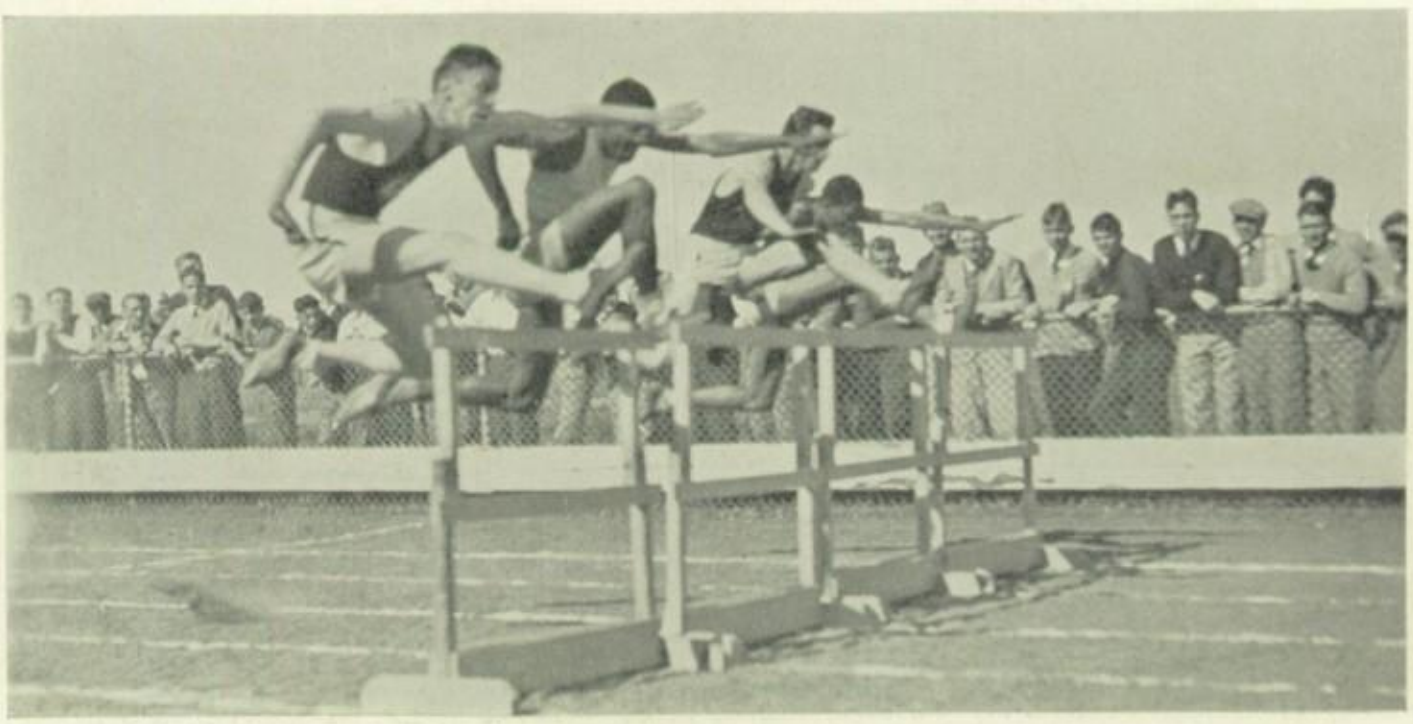
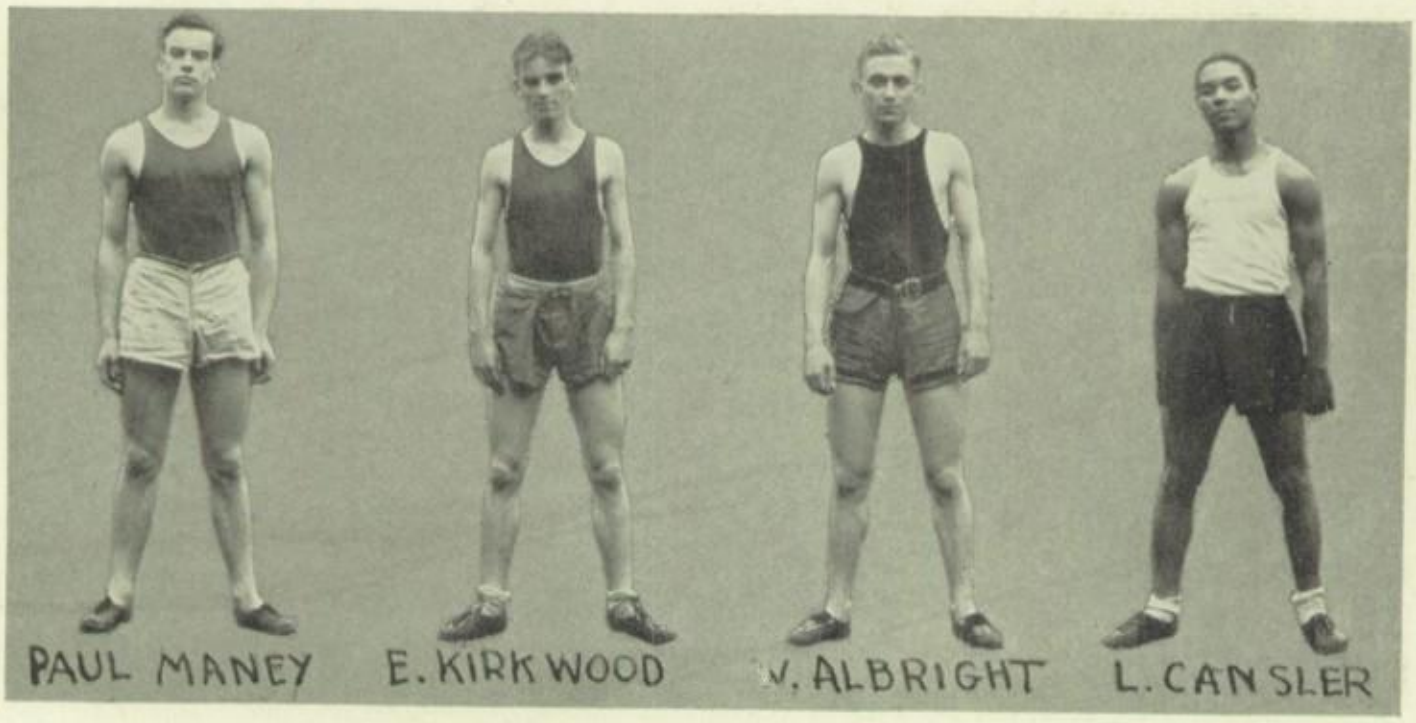
Track Season

The S. H. S. track season opened up with a bang. Students of Springfield High got under way and began a strenuous training in order to get in condition for the first meet on April 11. With the exception of a few boys who were out for Cross Country during the fall months most of the candidates had led an idle life during the winter. The team under the direction of Coach Teuscher began systematic training. The "form" in all field events was studied and practiced carefully, as this is very necessary in the perfection of the ability to perform any of these feats well. The dash men practiced "starts" and leg exercises while the distance men worked on stride. Not only was the track crowded by those trying for the team, but many students "worked out" there just for the exercise.

A Study of "Form" on the High Hurdles

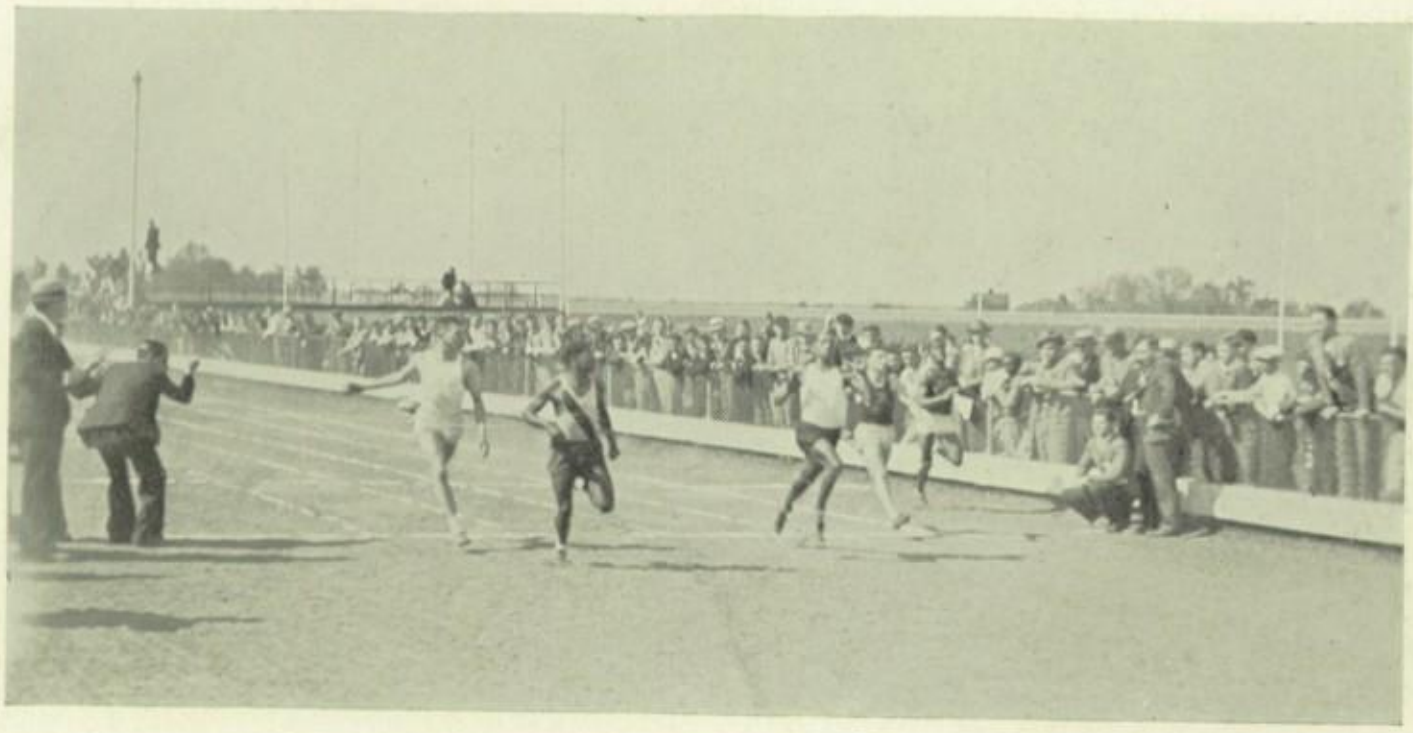


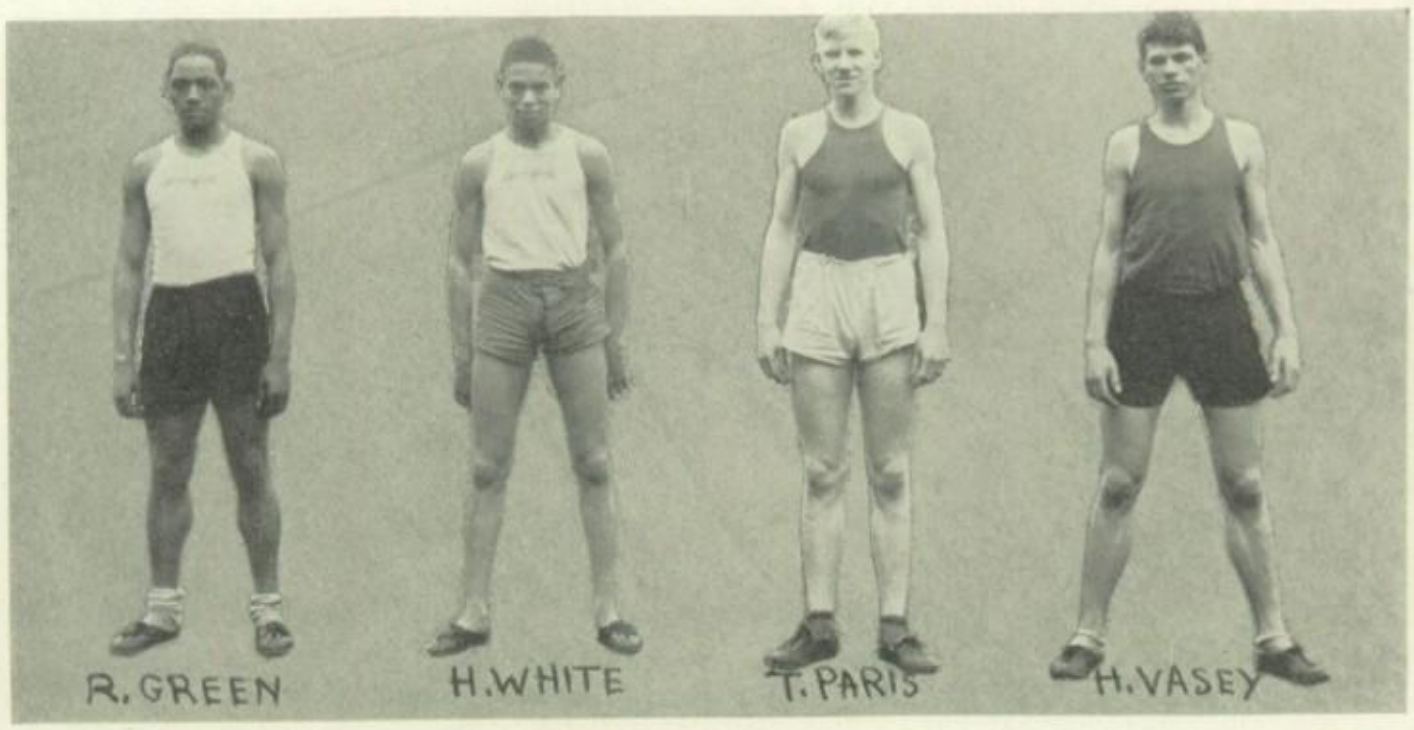


The first meet planned was a triangle meet with Decatur and Quincy. Springfield men were rated the under dogs and everyone expected them to do little because of lack of experienced men. In this case "everyone" was wrong. Springfield came through winning with 49½ points while Decatur and Quincy trailed with 43 and 31½ points respectively. Duey proved to be the star in this meet by capturing three firsts, discus, javelin and 220 low hurdles. The S.H.S. relay team composed of Green, Cansler, Wood, and Albright also won first. A goodly number of seconds and thirds by the other members of the team made it possible for the Red and Black track men to come out on top.

The second meet of the year was held at Lincoln between S. H. S. and Lincoln. Lincoln did not prove quite as proficient at track as they had at basketball and football.

Finish of the 100 at Big Twelve Meet





Winning all the first places except one, Springfield defeated Lincoln 82 points to 25 points. In several cases Springfield took all three places, and most everyone on the team scored. The results of this meet showed that S. H. S. did not have the worst team in the Big Twelve Conference.

The Big Twelve track meet was held on May 2 at Springfield High School and on the Illinois State Fair Grounds. The location of this meet was very appropriate, as we have used this subject as a theme for our book. This meet celebrated the entrance of Streator to the Big Twelve Conference in place of Jacksonville. Although Springfield did not show up quite so well as in the two previous meets, she did her best and consequently came in fifth in the meet. The first place was won by Urbana High School. This meet was very successful along the lines of equalling past records. Four of the championship records fell at this meet, Saturday. The mark of 10 seconds which was set for the 50 yard dash by Beacon Gorens of Lincoln was lowered by John Portman of Urbana to 9.7 seconds. The record for 220 yard dash set by Gordon Hundley of Urbana was lowered from 22.6 to 21.2 seconds by John Portman. Wiedman of Peoria Manual lowered the record of Anderson of Bloomington for the 880 yard dash from 2 minutes 3.4 seconds to 2 minutes 2.6 seconds. Lastly, Seely of Urbana pole vaulted 7¾ inches higher than Fletcher Barbee's, of Springfield, record of 11 feet and 3 inches.

Springfield has two more meets in view for this season. They are the district high school track meet and the state high school meet held on May 9 and 15 respectively. The result of these are not known at this time so we can only wish our team luck and hope for the best.

Cross Country

The diversion of track men during the fall and winter months confines itself to cross country running. The courses for this running are two miles long and vary in ease of accomplishment. Each school has a course two miles long laid out. Some of them are simply eight times around a quarter mile track while others are laid over city streets, thus including hills and rough pavements in the difficulties of such a run. These races are usually run between the halves of the football games. This is a fifteen-minute interval which would be very monotonous were it not for this side attraction.

A cross country team consists of four men. They must have plenty of stamina, for this run requires a great deal of endurance. The teams are judged as a whole. The team having the lowest number of points as determined by the system that the man who finishes first brings in one point, the second man two points, and so on. The Springfield cross country team would journey to rival schools with the football team. Before the game they usually looked over the course. As the first half of the game ended, the race would start. The start and finish of the race were usually held in front of the grandstand. After about ten minutes the race would be over and the football game would be resumed.

The team, under the leadership of Captain Don Stoutamyer, provided stiff competition for all competitors although they won only two of these scheduled contests. Jacksonville and Danville fell before the S. H. S. men while defeats were suffered at the hands of Lincoln, Peoria Central, and Decatur. At Peoria Manual, due to a disagreement and misunderstanding over the course conditions, no race was held and both schools were awarded a tie.

Golf Season

When the weather begins to get warm and the grass to turn green, the students of Springfield High School become afflicted with a strange sickness—the golf bug. During school their minds wander, and after school they wander over the courses located in the various parks of the city striking frequently at a little white object with a long stick. This may sound a bit foolish to those people who have never been afflicted with this disease, but those who have had it, are very sympathetic with these stricken youths.

Golf, for the students of S.H.S., is not only a pastime, but it is also something more serious. It provides an occasion to represent their school in intra-scholastic tournaments in this field and presents the opportunity to gain the much coveted "S". The call for golf candidates came early this year. Many interested students answered it, and practice was begun immediately. After practice had been going on for about a week Mr. Kavanaugh, the coach, announced that a tournament would be held among the candidates for the purpose of picking a team. The tournament was run off in a fine manner, and a team was picked to represent the S. H. S. in the district high school tournament.

Walsh, Keeley, McKenzie, Maddox, represented S. H. S. on May 3 at the district meet in Jacksonville. McKenzie and Maddox won the right to compete at the state meet to be held in the near future while Walsh and Keeley were defeated by a narrow margin. Although this is the only meet that has been held so far this year, several others are planned. We hope that the S. H. S. golfers finish the season as successfully as they have begun it.

Tennis Season

The first call for tennis candidates came. Again tennis lovers of S. H. S. began to look forward to a pleasant and successful season on the courts. As usual, the call came late because of the fact that the courts were slow in opening. Because of this fact, some of the players had practiced in gyms in order to be in condition for the call for try outs for the team. A goodly number of students turned out this year, more than usual. Coaches Spitale and Cavitt called a tournament among the candidates in order to pick a team from the winners. It was no more than started when Dame Fortune frowned, and it began to rain. For a whole week the courts were not in condition. Consequently, the time for the district tournament approached with the men on S. H. S. team having only been on the courts one or two times.

On May 2 the district high school tennis tournament was held in Jacksonville. The recent weather was of no hindrance, due to the fact that it was to be played on cement courts. Springfield's team, which consisted of Davis and Snodgrass in doubles, and Myers and Spence in singles made a good showing. Playing a steady game all the way through, Spence won the singles while the doubles team reached the semifinals. This gave Spence, as winner of the district, the right to compete in the state high school tournament on May 16.

Due to the fact that this book will be published before any other meets can be held, we can only give a few plans of the team. In the near future, dual meets are going to be held with Lincoln and Jacksonville. Soon after that will come the state and Big 12 meets. With the proper kind of practice, S.H.S. should have a winning team in these events.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

G. Lomelino L. Harber K. Mather

"Girls' Athletics" sound improbable to some people, because there are many people who believe it impossible for girls to indulge in any exercise. This opinion is due to ignorance or misinformation and is entirely false. On the contrary girls do indulge in athletics and can excell in them as is shown by the record of the activities of the girls of S.H.S. in all branches of athletics. The people who will not be able to see this record for their proof of this point should follow the activities of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody or should check up on the number of women to swim the English Channel.

Now to get back to Girls Athletics in Springfield High School. The Physical Development Department of S.H.S. offers extensive courses in athletic training for the girls as well as for the boys. Every girl is required to take two years of gym. After these two years are over, they are encouraged in the continuation of these activities by the Girls Athletic Association. This organization fosters an interest in athletics and rewards efforts made by presenting an "S" to those girls who have fulfilled a certain number of requirements.

Beside the regular classes, the girls have many other chances to use any athletic ability they might have. During the fall, tournaments are held on the tennis courts in all the parks in the city. Later on, there is archery practice, and as the winter months come on, there is skating, coasting, and sleighing, all of which take the attention of a goodly number of high school girls.

Not only do outside sports interest the girls during these months, but inside as well.

Basketball is then in fashion for the girls as well as for the boys. The girls showed the proficiency gained at this sport when they won first place in the state basket shooting contest. In the spring the interest in outside activities is revived. Tennis, golf, swimming. and many other sports are begun then and carried on through the summer. Anyone who could see one of the girl athletes of Springfield would no longer doubt the possibility of there being "Girls Athletics."

The 1931 Capitoline

As the 1931 Capitoline reaches the student the staff heaves a sigh, both of relief and regret. Of relief, because the many months of hard work are at an end. Of regret, because the pleasant hours of enthusiastic co-operation are at an end also. We wish, however, to say a few words concerning this book before surrendering it to the student body for their approval.

This twenty-second volume of the Capitoline of S.H.S. is the largest one yet published and we hope it will prove most interesting as well. Unity has been achieved by the use of the Illinois State Fair as a theme. This theme is very appropriate because of the vital connection between it and our community, as well as its standing as an educational institution. It has fitted in very well with our book and has provided an excellent subject for art work. Special attention has been given to the Athletic and Student Life Section, and we hope that the new arrangement of them will be appreciated. Because of being barred from the use of advertisements as a source of revenue, we have had to watch our finances very closely. In spite of this fact, the color scheme, the Junior Panels, and the Athletic Section have entailed no little expense. The scenic section involves a new idea for the arrangement of full page photos and contain some entirely original yet familiar views.

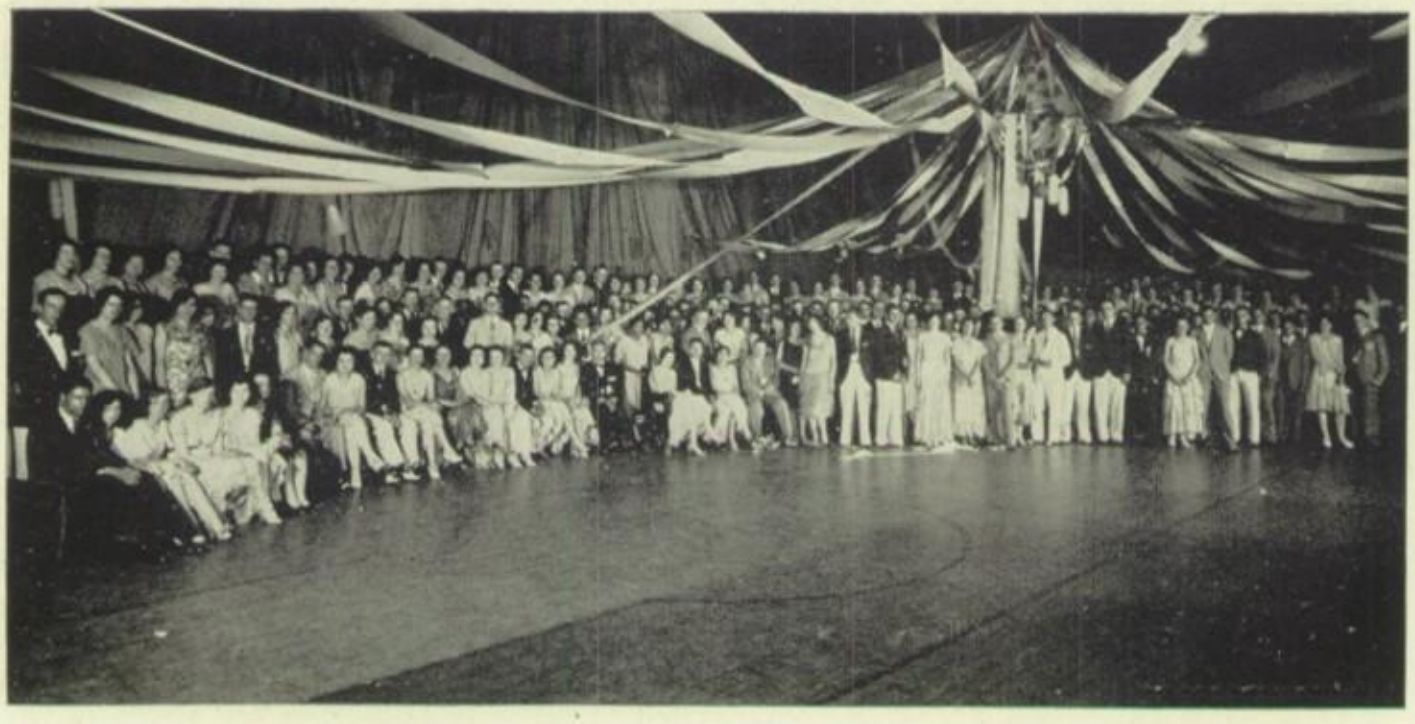
The staff this year was smaller than usual because we believed that although we would have to do more work if we had less assistants, we could have better co-operation and efficiency without them. Consequently, all the members on the staff have had to put a large amount of time at hard work during the year.

The position of faculty advisor was filled by Mr. Robert Furry this year. This was his second year in this position and again he proved indispensible. His generous gift of time, as well as clever ideas were a great help to the book. His excellent advice and pleasant co-operation in all that was undertaken went a long way toward producing this book in its present condition.

In conclusion we wish to say that if this volume, the result of our combined efforts, meets the approval of the student body, we will feel that our efforts were not in vain.



The Junior-Senior Prom

Again the ambitious Juniors are preparing for that social highlight of the school season, and again those same Juniors are slapping their Senior brothers upon the back and telling them that this year's prom will far outshine any previous one given. Seniors, however, do not take these light words seriously, but merely remark, "It remains to be seen." For what could be more glorious than the prom of 1930?

Picture this scene: Figures are dancing under dim flood lights to dreamy music, a chandelier festooned with green and white paper sends out a mellow glow, palms and ferns half hide the orchestra and the scent of roses floats about under the heaven of green and white streamers. Some 350 couples dance to the swaying music of Vaught's Capitol Kings. The Grand Promenade begins and all wend their way merrily about the spacious gymns. Refreshments are served—more dancing and then happy Juniors and sad faced Seniors—sad because this ends life in dear old Alma Mater—wend their way homeward. Such was the Prom of 1930. The ambitions of the ambitious Juniors were fulfilled, for the Prom of 1930 went down into the pages of history as the biggest, and most successful Prom ever staged.

But we are reminded again and again that the Prom of 1930 was the biggest and most successful—so far. The boastful undergraduates are working hard to make their dreams a reality. We hope they fulfill their desires for we Seniors will not be satisfied with a mediocre Prom. That would be contrary to the standards of such an illustrious Senior class—but, since it will not occur until several weeks after this volume is published, we shall have to wait and see.

High School Journalism

Distinguished rating by the Illinois State High School Press Association; secretaryship of that organization for the coming year; charter member of, and honor rating from, the National Scholastic Press Association—quite a record for a high school paper but nevertheless the record achieved by the S. H. S. Bulletin. This record is explained when one sees the staff at work. Under the direction of Miss Van Deventer, the enterprising journalists spend long hours in and out of school in preparing "copy" and advertising so that S. H. S. might have a Bulletin.

of the school. Contributions, however, are made by past members of these classes and others in school who excell in writing. The business affairs of the paper are in charge of the Bulletin Business Staff under the direction of Mr. Kavanaugh.

An organization closely akin to Journalism is the Springfield chapter of "Quill and Scroll," International Honorary society for High School journalists. This society under the advisorship of Miss Van Deventer has gained quite a repute locally for its activities. Meetings are held every two weeks at which time interesting programs are presented by the members. The value of a membership in this society is known and envied by every student author, poet, or journalist.

Inter-Society Debate

The Inter-Society Debates of 1931 for the Parent-Teachers' Association loving cup were of a most interesting character. The question for debate was, "Resolved: that the chain stores are detrimental to the community." All of the teams were very well prepared and, consequently, the debates were closely contested. The silver loving cup, which was presented to the winning team, and which was to become the permanent property of any team winning the cup for three consecutive years, had been in the possession of the Delphics for two consecutive years.

The first series opened with the Thalian affirmative team meeting the Delphic negative team and the Les Bas affirmative meeting the Wrangler negative team. The Delphic team, composed of Charles Sanford, Charles Fiske, and Edward Day, gained a 2 to 1 decision over the Thalian team, which was composed of Virginia Gieske, Adelaide O'Brian, and Jean Hunt. The Wrangler team gathered a 3 to 0 decision from the Les Bas. Lowell Pittman, John Donovan, and Charles Cremeans bore the Wrangler's colors, while the Les Bas were represented by Marjorie Sprinkell, Katherine Surrat, and Edna Frances Wines. The Philo team drew a bye in the first series. In the second series the Delphic team drew a bye, thus leaving the Wranglers and Philos to fight it out between themselves as to who should meet the Delphics in the finals. The Wranglers were awarded a 2 to 1 decision over the Philo team, which was composed of Farrie Hanson, Virginia Coffield, and Marjorie Burt. The final debate was held before the Parent-Teachers' Association on February 17. The judges awarded the Delphic team a 2 to 1 decision. This decision gave the Delphics permanent possession of the loving cup, as it was the third consecutive year they had won it.

Varsity Debate

The 1931 varsity debate teams have completed another busy and successful year. Although only one-half of the debates participated in were won, it was felt that debate was unusually successful because of the great amount of interest shown. Over thirty people tried out for the varsity teams. Because of this number, Springfield was able to enter both the Big Twelve League and the Illinois Debate's League. The question for debate for the season was, "Resolved: that the chain stores are detrimental to the community." The question proved popular because of the general interest which has been shown by both contenders.

The first debate was held with Girard on March 12. Both the Springfield teams won decisions. This debate was in the State League. On March 18 a triangular debate was held with Decatur and Jacksonville. Over 700 students heard the Springfield negative team defeat the Decatur affirmative team by a 3-2 decision. At the same time the Springfield affirmative team lost to Jacksonville, thus eliminating Springfield from the Big Twelve League. On March 29, both the Springfield teams lost to Pekin in the Illinois League by close decisions of 122-123, 120.5-121. On April 6, the Springfield affirmative team defeated Granite City's entry by the close decision of 124-123. However, the negative team lost to the Granite City affirmative team by a 133-128 decision. This debate finished the season's work. Miss Ellen Rourke was again coach. As many of this year's team will be back again next year a very successful season is in sight.

In the second week of December, the combined choirs of Springfield High School under the direction of Mr. Lundgren presented their annual operetta. "Sonia" proved an excellent choice, as it was well adapted to the voices of the choirs, and because it pleased the audiences a great deal. The music and the acting were very well done. The melodies of this opera were very catching and could be heard hummed or whistled on the campus for many weeks after it was presented. The success of this performance was, without a doubt, due to the long hours spent in rehearsal and the excellent direction of Mr. Lundgren.

On May 29 the Senior Class of Springfield presented their annual play. "The Admirable Crichton" was given before large audiences in matinee and evening performances in a very commendable manner. The parts were filled by Seniors who excelled in the tryouts. The play was directed by Miss Margaret Rourke, drama instructor. Both the choice of play and its delivery were excellent. The success of this play was only due to long hours of practice and excellent direction. The Senior Class appreciates the excellent production given in its name, by the students who filled the parts.

The King's Henchmen

On November 21, 1930, the drama lovers of Springfield were treated with a most excellent performance of Edna St. Vincent Millay's, "The King's Henchmen." The play was presented to a large and appreciative audience, both at the afternoon matinee and at the evening performance, by members of the high school drama class under the direction of Miss Margaret Rourke.

And now a word about the play. The setting is in England in the tenth century. One immediately realizes that such a setting means all the color, glamour, and chivalry of old England! The richness of the costumes and stage setting added enjoyment to the play. Athelwold, Henchman of King Eadgar, is sent by the king to bring back Eadgar's future bride, whom he has never seen. Athelwold and Maccus, the King's bard, begin the journey. Near Devon, where the future bride lives, the two travelers are enveloped in a dense fog. They lose their horses and Maccus goes in search of them. Meanwhile Athelwold falls asleep and Aelfrida, the future bride, wakes him up with a kiss, for she believes him to be a spirit. Athelwold falls passionately in love with Aelfrida. She is most beautiful and charming. Athelwold marries her. He goes back to the King's court and tells Eadgar that Aelfrida is the most ugly creature he ever beheld, and for the King's sake he did not bring her back. Finally when the King finds that Athelwold has betrayed him Athelwold stabs himself.

The cast of this play proved very capable, and their interpretation of the various parts was an enjoyment to the audience. Stephen Gard played the part of Athelwold, Natalie Tate that of Aelfrida, Frank Baker that of Ordgar, Horace Fletcher that of Maccus, and Paul Buckholt that of Eadgar.

Sophomore Cantata

On Sunday, December 21, 1930, the Annual Sophomore Christmas Vespers were given in the High School auditorium before a large audience. Over five hundred members of the Sophomore chorus classes under the direction of Miss Veronica Davis sang the more important choruses from George Frederick Handel's great work, "The Messiah." This is the first time that anything so difficult has been given by the Sophomore Chorus classes. The manner in which this difficult work was executed was quite noteworthy, and it showed not only able leadership but also a finished touch that comes only with hours of rehearsing. Miss Diamond Vadakin, soprano, was the guest soloist of the afternoon. The chorus was assisted by Miss Vadakin, Edwin Tink, tenor, and the Double String Quintet, which is composed of members from the Advanced Orchestra. Louis Hahn opened the program by playing several Christmas carols upon the chimes. The program which followed, opened with the Overture to the "Messiah" by the Double String Quintet. Solos by Miss Vadakin and choruses sung by the Sophomore Glee club, the Girls' Chorus, and the chorus classes followed. The Pastoral Symphony was played by the Double String Quintet during the concert. The program ended with the great and immortal "Hallelujah Chorus." The Double String Quintet was composed of Dan Morgan and Howard Booth, first violins; Roger Welch and Virginia Reagan, second violins; Paul Buckholdt and Pauline Davis, viola; Mary Westenberger and Gertrude Albrecht, cellos; John Ryan, bass, and Gladys Gordon, piano. The performance provided excellent entertainment for all who attended. For many years the Sophomore Chorus classes have given these cantatas, but this one far surpassed the others in intrinsic value and in delivery.

England has a House of Lords, Germany a Reicharat, the United States a Senate, and Springfield High School a Student Senate. A very significant political statement and yet I fear, dear reader, that you yet are in darkness in regard to our student Senate. The Senate is the ruling body of the student government. The Senators are elected by the Representatives and by the class advisors. One Senator is elected, and one of the opposite sex is appointed. One doesn't hear much about the Senate and yet they really do a lot of work that is necessary to the well being of student government. The Senate is responsible for the little book of information, "The Red and Black Pilot." What would the unexperienced Freshmen do without this guide? The Senate is also responsible for various assemblies, clean-up programs, and social entertainments. The Senate and Representatives gave a most delightful dance and party before the Christmas vacation. It was really a "scrumptous" affair. Ask any one who attended. So you see that the Student Senate is quite an important factor in S. H. S.

The Senior Girls' Council is composed of sixteen girls of the "higher type"—to quote their advisor, Miss Whipp,—chosen by the faculty for scholarship, high character, and leadership.

Under the direction of Miss Whipp, who has been the best of advisors, the Council has endeavored to serve the school in all ways. Its members have ushered at all school activities and have acted as official hostesses on several occasions, including Open House and the Big Twelve Meet.

At the opening of the school year, a tea was given for the freshman girls to make them feel at home at S. H. S. The newcomers who attend seemed to feel that they had sixteen friends to whom to turn when they needed advice and guidance.

The "redcoats" also gave a silver tea for the June seniors and the faculty members. This was rather a farewell party for the seniors and the Council members, too.

To further scholarship the Council awarded fifteen dollars in prizes to freshman. One prize of five dollars was awarded to the boy having the highest average in the College Prep course; one to the girl having the highest average in College Prep; and one to the boy or girl having the highest in General or Commercial work.

The purpose of the Junior Etude is to foster a kindred spirit among the musicians of Springfield High School. Meetings are held twice a month in which various members of the organization present solo numbers to the group, while others deliver interesting talks on a composer's life or his compositions. Every month a certain nation's music and its composers are studied. The members of this organization also have the delightful opportunity of hearing outside singers from the Amateur Musical Club at their meetings, because the Junior Etude is a minor branch of this larger organization.

The Etude's personal activities in cooperating with school becomes dominant during the National Music Week, during which time a musical program is given in the auditorium as a stimulation for personal ambition in music. This program is made possible by the splendid services of the members of the society, and they should be commended for their earnest work in placing the Etude before the eyes of the school in a desire to emphasize the value of classical music.

The Junior Etude is a small selective group with a desire to emerge into the company of the more powerful organizations, and therefore plans have been made for a huge membership drive for next year to gain a large representation among musical organizations of Springfield High School.

The High School orchestra forms an important factor in establishing and maintaining Springfield High School's fame both at home and throughout the state. Under the splendid direction of Miss Ruth Soulman the group has never failed to place in State competition. The Big 12 Conference Orchestra was composed chiefly of members from this group. Springfield always ranks at the top in a showing of training, cooperation, and true musical excellence.

The Preparatory Orchestra is composed of young musicians who receive their early training in orchestral work in preparation for promotion to the Advanced Symphony Orchestra.

Another group closely connected with the orchestras is the Double String Quartet. This group is an especially notable one of high school musicians, chosen from the Orchestra for their outstanding interest and ability. This year they have established a name for themselves and for the school by appearances at numerous social and civic functions.

In the past year Springfield High School possessed one of the finest bands since 1923, when the band was first organized. The band reached the finals of the state contest but was unable to compete due to financial difficulties. However, several of the individual members placed high in the state contests and in the Big-12 meet. The band has played at many public affairs and has won the praise and admiration of the local citizenry. A great deal of credit should be given to Mr. G. W. Patrick, the conductor. His untiring efforts and inspirational direction are easily discerned in the band's fine showing.

Because of the ever increasing number of Freshmen who are desirous of entering the concert band, a reserve band was established. In the reserve band they are acquainted with mass playing and fundamentals of band music. Upon the completion of their training in the reserve band, they are ready to enter the Concert Band without further preliminaries. The Reserve Band has proven to be a valuable asset in the selection of finer musicians for the Concert Band.

Junior and Senior Glee Clubs

The students of Springfield High School who enjoy singing find ample opportunity to indulge in this pleasant pastime in the Junior and Senior Glee Clubs. Under the direction of Mr. Carl Lundgren the members of these organizations spend many happy hours during the year learning and singing songs. The members of these choirs find that they have for an instructor a man who excells as much at training inexperienced voices as he does directing a number.

The result of this excellent training is shown by the excellent record of the activities of Senior Choir last year. Many times during the year they sang at entertainments outside of school. They presented their annual operetta which, as usual, was very successful and last but not least won the Big 12 titles for mixed and girls choruses.

The Delphic Literary Society had again within its fold the foremost of the school's athletes, scholars, debaters and student leaders. It may truly be said that the society has completed one of the most successful years since its organization. From a political standpoint the society encountered its usual success, electing from their number seven class officers out of a possible twelve. The Capitoline staff is composed chiefly of members of this society. On February 17, the Delphic debate team won the Parent-Teachers Debate Cup for the third consecutive year, gaining permanent possession of this trophy and demonstrating the society's ability in forensics. Several of the members won varsity letters in football, basketball, and track. Of the seven men belonging to the varsity debate team, five were Delphics. The Delphics maintained the highest scholastic average among the boys' societies. The semester dances given by the society were very successful from a social standpoint. The annual Delphic Open House was a huge success. Those who attended will recall the delightful program presented. The society is greatly indebted for its success to Mr. Wentz, faculty advisor, because of his unselfish gift of time and thought, and because of his excellent advice during the year.

The Wrangler Debating Society again proved that it was a decided asset to the school during the past year. The society elected six of its members to class offices which shows that the society is taking more interest in the politics of the school. The usual number of members gained places on the various athletic teams. The society also had representatives on the varsity debate team. Although the Wrangler Debate team did not win the inter-society debate, they gave the Delphics some intense and spirited competition for the cup. In inter-society athletics the Wranglers showed their ability, as they have in the past years, by tying the Delphics in football, and by defeating them in basketball. The society was very successful, as usual, in their social efforts during the past year. A matinee dance was given early in the fall which was a huge success. Likewise their second semester dance was well attended and enjoyed by all present. During the past year the Wranglers have secured a goodly number of pledges who are expected to raise the society to even greater heights.

Mr. Brown was the faculty advisor for the Wranglers again this year. Much of the credit for their achievements in the past two years belongs to him because of his activity in their behalf.

Upholding the high standard of former years, the Les Bas literary society has again passed two most successful semesters, both in scholarship and social activity. Represented in inter-society debate, they failed to defeat the Wranglers, but in all else they have been eminently successful.

A pirate dance cleverly decorated and executed was sponsored by the Les Bas, celebrating the victory of S.H.S. football team over Lincoln. The annual spring formal turned out to be the usual prominent social affair of the second semester. Among other special activities, were the Mothers' party at which a delightful program was presented, the picnic in May given by the graduating seniors, and an unusual night meeting, which took the form of a bridge party.

Much of the success of the Les Bas Bleus has been due to their very popular advisor, new this year to the society, Miss Bullard. She has devoted her time, her enthusiasm, and her interesting original ideas to every project of the club. The result of their combined efforts was visible in the delightful programs presented, as well as their efforts in outside activities. The success of this organization attracted many new members who will be expected to carry on the good work next year.

After another successful year, the Thalians have again anchored in port with the continuation of their high standards in the literarv field and with their insured social success.

Again this year the Thalians staged their Hallowe'en dance; a gala affair of gaily bedecked couples swaying to the rythm of Russ Canham and his Band. Nearly one hundred couples attended dressed in the fetching costumes which the mystic night offers to those bent on merriment, which they certainly found at the Mask Dance.

April brought with it the Mothers' Tea to be followed by the closing event of a successful year, the annual Senior Banquet.

The Thalian's meetings, which were held once every two weeks, were always well attended because of the delightful programs presented. The programs were made up of a variety of entertaining features including playlets, readings, cuss meetings, as well as, musical programs. Under the able direction of Miss Gill, faculty advisor, the Thalians have proved unexceptionally successful in everything they have undertaken. Although the writer of this article was unable to attend any of the meetings because of his sex, he has heard reports of the entertaining, as well as, educational programs presented there, and wishes that he might get the benefit of the excellent training in forensics that a girls' society gives.

The Philomachians are an outstanding girl's society, both as a group and as individuals. The membership consists of Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors. While the purpose of the Philo's is to promote interest in literature and forensics, they have also devoted some of their time to the pursuit of lighter subjects such as mock trials, picnics, and initiations.

The Philos have taken an active part in social and inter-society affairs of the school. A charming formal dance was given December 20, in the Housekeeping Suite. Appropriate decorations including a large Christmas tree added to the festive air. The members considered the project a successful financial undertaking, while those who attended declared it one of the most delightful social affairs of the season. A novel informal dance, a Sport Dance, was given April 18 on the stage. The atmosphere was very gay due to the sport clothes worn by those present, and the dance, as expected, turned out to be another social success for the Philos. In the early fall and in the latter part of March, an informal initiation was held for the purpose of introducing new members into the society by more or less barbarous means. In Inter-Society debate, the Philos were not quite as successful as usual, winning from the Hi-Y's and losing to the Wranglers. All during the year, the society was very ably advised by Miss Dieterich who was as enthusiastic in her co-operation as each member.

The primary object of the Hi-Y Club this school year has been to raise sufficient funds for bringing a boy from some foreign land to the Y.M.C.A. World Conference to be held this summer. The club successfully raised the funds by two methods. On the night of April 29, Colteaux, magician and ventriloquist, gave a performance before a large and appreciative audience at S.H.S. The Hi-Y also had charge of all concessions at the "Y" circus, May 8 and 9.

In the way of social activities the Club has done little. The Annual Hallowe'en party was held at Camp Glen Olive. Twenty couples attended and enjoyed a delightful party.

However the Hi-Y Club is one of service. It has been fortunate this year in having officers who felt the responsibility of their duties to the club and to the school. The characteristic spirit of the Hi-Y Club this year has been one of fellowship and co-operation. The Hi-Y Club officers and members look back upon the past year as one of an aim achieved and a duty fulfilled. The Club has proven itself to be "of service to the school and to the Community."

Advisor	Mr. Cox

The Junior Hi-Y is an organization of younger high school boys who stand for much the same principles as the Senior Hi-Y group. Under the capable advisorship of Mr. Ernest Cox the group has been built up this year to an important Freshman activity. The membership consists chiefly of outstanding students who work to improve themselves and those with whom they come in contact by following the ideals set by the club.

The meetings are held at the Y.M.C.A., where there are speeches and games. Parliamentary drill has been studied this pear in an effort to acquaint the members with rules for conducting meetings and assuring better order in the conduct of the society.

On May 22 members enjoyed a picnic at Camp Shuster as a climax to a year of accomplishment.

The Junior Hi-Y stands out as an unusual orianization also because of the fact that it is one of the few high school organizations for Freshmen. By following its high principles members become better and more worth while material for later work in their high school years.

The Future Farmers, S. H. S.'s only vocational club, can lay claim to being one of the school's most active organizations. With Mr. Tomlin once more as advisor and a new set of officers headed by John Churchill, the club went out after big things and certainly got a large percentage of them. Oliver Durham was sent to Kansas City to the National meeting, John Churchill represented the club in the Sectional Public Speaking Contest, members were active on all school judging teams, and the club sponsored the Sectional Livestock Judging Contest at the State Fair Grounds.

The local chapter is an active member of the national organization and has as its purpose the sponsoring of an interest in vocational and agriculture instruction of the rising generation of farmers along scientific agricultural lines. The club received its impetus with the establishment of a course in agriculture and now, in the second year of its existence, it has already assumed a leading role in the activities of the school.

Perhaps there is no other society in the high school that is composed of finer girls with higher ideals and purposes than the Swastika Girl Reserves. There is somewhat of a brotherhood—or perhaps we had better use the word sisterhood—existing among these girls that is sadly lacking among other societies. What is the purpose of the Swastika's? Their name means "The Keepers of the Fine." Interpreted, that would mean that they are keepers of all that is good, and the heat of the good fire must necessarily radiate upon other people. They are a group of girls that believe in healthy bodies and minds. During the various athletic events this group sold candy. They have cooperated at all times with the Y. W. C. A. On Good Friday an inspirational service was conducted by this group and the Hi-Y's, at the Y.W.C.A. This shows that the Swastika's are truly a fine group of girls. They should be highly commended for the presentation of such a service. Miss Nelch, the advisor, deserves a great deal of credit for her untiring work in the guidance and upbuilding of this organization.

With the innovation of the German language into the curricula of the modern language department a German Club, Der Deutsche Verein, was formed. This club was organized for the purpose of furthering the students' interest and knowledge of the German language. The club, under the able guidance of Miss Herzer, has progressed until it now ranks with the leading clubs of the school. The meetings, whether business or social, are carried out in German. This not only increases interest in the meetings, but it benefits the members materially, because they are in a position to use the language outside of the class room. The meetings are carried out in such a manner that one forgets that they have any connection with the high school—or at least the classes. Songs, recitations, and plays are given in German. The Norse mythology and poems, studied in class, often lead to many interesting discussions at the meetings. Much credit should be given to the members of the club for the fine meetings that have been held. The German language is considered one of the most difficult of languages and the ease with which these meetings have been carried out reflects the interest and ability of the members. A great deal of credit is due to the advisor, Miss Herzer, for her untiring efforts.

When the Cafeteria was first begun, there were only a few boys employed. As the school grew, the Cafeteria increased in size, and consequently more boys were needed. The number finally grew so large that it was difficult for all the boys to become acquainted, and so the Cafeteria Council was formed. Not that its purpose is a social one, but it also enables the boys to give better cooperation and service to the Cafeteria. The members of the Council work in the Cafeteria for their meals. This not only saves them money, but it gives them invaluable experience and a more intimate contact with the rest of the school. Approximately seventy-five boys belong to this organization. Meetings are held twice a month. An interesting and instructive program is always presented and problems concerning the Cafeteria are discussed. Approximately ninety-five per cent of the members attend these meetings which speaks well for the organization. The members of the Cafeteria are advanced according to their aptitude and promised ability. This stimulates both friendly competition and better service. The Cafeteria is a vital part in our high school life. We don't know exactly how to express it, but anyway — hats off to the boys who serve the meals.

Due to the fact that the high school possesses such a fine drama course, it was decided that lovers of drama should be given an opportunity to express and develop themselves outside the class room. With this thought in mind the Dramatic Club was organized. However, the membership is not limited to members of the drama class, anyone with dramatic abilities and tendencies is eligible for membership. The purpose of the club is to acquaint its members with stage setting, theatrical make-up, directing, and acting. Plays are given every two weeks under the guidance of Miss Eilers, the advisor. We say guidance because the members really do most of the work. That is the purpose of the club. Some very interesting plays were given by the club during the year. Perhaps the two outstanding plays given were "Thursday Evening" by Marley and, "A Cup of Tea" by Ryerson. The first play, a comedy in one act, was directed by Lawrence Kramp. Those who participated in the play were James Crandell, Isadora Friedman, Helen Staley, and Jane White. The second play was directed by Theresa Mund. This was a most entertaining farce. Lawrence Kramp, Marjorie Sprinkell, Jane White, and Vernon Westbrook were those who participated in the play.

The A. R. Crook Science club has been organized only this year, but already is taking its place as an important and outstanding activity in the school. Its purpose is to encourage scientific interest and research. Members are chosen from students of all the high school sciences, and the weekly programs consist of demonstrations, experiments, and talks on chemistry, physics, physiology, biology, astronomy, and advanced sciences.

In March, thirty members of the club took a field trip to Camp Sangamo where specimens and information were collected. A delicious picnic lunch which ended a morning of exploring was followed by a treasure hunt and baseball game.

On May 9 the members of the club journeyed to Peoria to attend the meeting of the Junior Academy of Science of which our society is a unit. Members displayed exhibits which they prepared as part of the activity in the club.

In future years this new organization hopes to continue its rapid steps in arousing and fostering scientific interest among high school students.

Boys' "S" Club

"All glory laud and honor," begins an Ancient hymn. We'll hymn it again and use that phrase in describing our reactions to the wearer of the "S."

The "S" Club is the honorary athletic organization of Springfield High School. Being merely honorary it is not active in the truest sense of the word. The Club does not hold meetings and it does not elect officers. Yet, it is active. It is active in so far as it encourages underclassmen to try for a varsity letter. All the members of the "S" club have won at least one major letter. They have not only won that letter, but they have worked and earned it, for every letter given means hours and hours of hard practice.

We should be very proud of the "S" club. Its members have brought fame to S.H.S. The club was organized to foster school spirit. We may say that its functions are silent, but nevertheless they do increase school spirit. How? Well, every fellow has a sense of pride and spirit whenever he sees one of those big red and black "S's." He knows that the wearer has shown his metal either in football, basketball, or track. The fellows that are members of the "S" club are one fine group of fellows. They symbolize the very spirit of old S.H.S. We hope that in future years that many more students will win their "S," as this is one of the highest acknowledgments of achievements that the high school gives.

What is more dignified looking than a group of Girl Scouts attired in their neat uniforms? Well, there may be some things that are, but nevertheless there is something far better than being dignified in a group of girl scouts. There is spirit and life—the spirit and life of America's young womanhood. Many times during the year hikes are held. These prove beneficial in more ways than one for the girls not only develop a greater understanding of nature but they also get a good deal of exercise that probably accounts for their rosy cheeks. Due to the fact that most of the girls are advanced scouts, a large amount of time has been spent in working for merit badges. During the fall months a group studied the stars—a scout leader was present—and found this to be quite interesting and instructive. Various nature hikes have been held, and an overnight hike to Camp Schuster was held in May.

The girls have held several pot-luck suppers and parties at the scout headquarters. They have proven themselves a valuable asset to the various organizations of the city in that they have assisted in many civic functions.

"L'Histoire." Sounds very much like history but this club has nothing to do with history unless story telling may be classed as a social science. We have mentioned story telling, and that is the purpose of the club. From the writer's experience while in high school it seems that there are a goodly number of people who are quite adept in this art who do not belong to "L'Histoire." But, to cast all joking aside, the club has a very definite purpose; that purpose being to train members in the technique of story telling, and to give them practical experience by visiting the Detention Home, and the Home for the Friendless. The girls have made themselves extremely popular at both of these places—showing that they are really benefitting both themselves and others. Then, at each meeting of the organization, stories are told, and a lengthy criticism of their presentation and type are given. The club has also been active socially within their group. Several parties of interest were given and enjoyed by the members. We commend these girls on their noble objective—for story telling has really become somewhat of a lost art.

The Unity Girl Reserves present one of the most interesting groups in high school. They have finished another year which reflects upon their service, friendliness, dependability, and goodliness. They have followed the Girl Reserve Code, and they have proved that they are willing to do their part in improving girlhood all over the world. The purpose of the Girl Reserves is "To find and give the best." What a fine goal to strive for! We believe these girls have carried out their purpose. They have created a spirit of friendliness toward all; they have kept a high standard of Christian living; and they have given their best service in all undertakings. The club has centered its activities on Negro social and educational work while the civic Negro organizations of the city have cooperated with the club in its study of Negro history and arts. The Negro organizations of the city have enjoyed not a few successes during the past year, and it may be truthfully said that the Unity Girl Reserves contributed their share to the success of these undertakings. The club has had a most successful year, and it is felt that this is due to the untiring efforts of the advisor and officers, and the willing cooperation of all the members.
